E. Timor first lady takes bus home to Pangasinan

By Gabriel Candiano
Inquirer Northern Luzon

DAGERAN CITY—LIKE A TYPICAL local boy, Josephine Aquino Supeno, with 5-year-old son Hector, 15, arrived at the Naga Aquino International Airport 30 days ago and was met by her mother.

After exchanging greetings, they took a cab and headed to a bus terminal in Paoay City where they boarded a bus bound for her native Pangasinan.

The Friday-night trip took five hours. At the station, they loaded a bicycle and asked to be taken to their house in Dagsaran, Benguet.

But Supeno, 41, is no ordinary local woman. She is the former first lady of East Timor and the wife of that country's national parliament president, Fernando "Luroso" da Alcaraz.

"As a private family unit," Supeno told the Inquirer by way of explaining why her official in the country was her share of the ceremony usually accorded a visiting foreign dignitary.

"But if it were an official state visit, then we would be in a very complicated protocol. But also, I don't really like protocol. That's why I'm the second time lady anyone could hear."

Supeno is East Timor's minister that lady because its president, Jose Ramos Horta, is unmarried.

"It's great [to be back home], and it's really a spiritual journey for me to come full circle," Supeno said.

She also visited Dagsaran in 2001, 2002 and 2006. This time, her visit to her parents' cottage in Bagan Gapan, a heavily populated barangay facing the Ilog River Gulf, took only 15 days.

Her parents, Joseph and Maria Corajal Supeno and Corina Roldan Aquino, are longtime residents of Bagan Gapan.

"I didn't meet anyone because I only came here to rest," Supeno said. "I didn't go around and meet people because my life is so exhausting in East Timor and also in other places. I came here basically to relax and unwind."

THE MURDER OF PUBLICIST Salvador "Bubby" Dacer and his driver Emmanuel Corbino in 2000 had been linked to the manipulation of Best World (BW) Resources stocks the year before by a crosby of deposed President Joseph Estrada, according to Justice Secretary Raul Gonzales.

"There will definitely be a linkage there, the BW and the Dacer case," Gonzales said yesterday following a Court of Appeals' order to pursue the criminal prosecution of BW chair Dante Tan and seven others for stock manipulation.

Tan, a major contributor to Estrada's 1998 presidential campaign, fled the country before he could be brought to court to answer for illegal trading practices that resulted in the collapse of the Philippine stock market.

Estrada yesterday scoffed at reports linking the double murder to BW Resources.

"If Dacer was the [B] of BW Resources, why kill him?" Estrada said in a telephone interview.

Estrada maintained he had nothing to do with BW Resources.

Ibrado: GMA's choice for next AFP chief hailed

By Terra Quinsanda

"THE SHOULDERS WILL BE A LITTLE heavy," the Armed Forces of the Philippines chief-in-waiting said in a post. In a move welcomed by allies and critics alike, President Macapagal-Arroyo has chosen Lt. Gen. Victor Brando as the next AFP chief of staff.

Brando, the Philippine Army chief, takes over upon the retirement in two months of AFP Chief of Staff Gen. Alexander Tan, a former commander in the Philippine Military Academy, from which he graduated in 1976.

Defense Secretary Gilberto Teodoro Jr. announced the selection of Brando.

VELASCO, PANGASINAN—THE defense and allies of the accused might have been weak, but the prosecution's evidence was weaker.

On so said Judge Manuel Ponce of Regional Trial Court Branch 50 in acquiring three men accused of the kidnapping and killing of Giancarlo Loring and Tisha Maytal, both students of the University of the Philippines Baguio, in 2005.

In a 28-page decision issued yesterday, Ponce said the prosecution had failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt.

Ex-DOF exec, Chingkoes ordered arrested in tax credit scam

By Eileen C. Tanabe

THE SANDAGANBAGAN ANTIDRAFT court ordered the arrest of a former finance assistant secretary and seven others, including the owners of a trade company, who are facing charges for allegedly defrauding the government of about P76 million through a tax scam from 1994 to 1998.

RESIGNED Gracia Ponce Enrile only six months into her posting.

The Sandiganbayan First Division directed the Philippine National Police (PNP) and the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) to arrest former Finance Assistant Secretary Antonio Belandier (a former administrator of the One Stop Shop Inter-Agency Tax Credit and Duty Drawback Center (CADC)) and former Customs Deputy revenue director Cleofilo Andanan Jr.

Gracia received Antonio Magallat, tax specialist Rosendo Malabon, couple Basilio and Gloria Chingkoes, Villar corporate secretary Grace Chingkoes, and Villar representative Carolina Antonio Basilio.

The Chingkoes couple are owners of Villar Textile Industrial Corp. (See What Their Roles on Page A10.)

The Chingkoes couple are the major suspects in the tax credit scam of the mid-1990s. Some 64 companies they owned allegedly illegally obtained TCCs worth above P5.3 billion.

TCCs are refund payments that import companies are allowed to claim for duties paid on imported materials used for the manufacture of export products.

Enrile wife quits Vatican post; Tuason is new envoy

By Christine D. Avendaño
and TJ Baroja

BARELY SIX MONTHS INTO A HIGHLY coveted posting for Filipino diplomats, Gracia Ponce Enrile has resigned as ambassador to the Vatican.

Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile yesterday said his wife, Gracia Ponce Enrile, resigned from her post before the Holy Week because she was suffering from chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS).

Enrile said the Inquirer that he had advised his 72-year-old wife to quit her job because of her condition which began in November last year. The post held credentials to Pope Benedict XVI only on Oct. 27, 2008.

"She developed the same symptoms that afflicted Sen. (Lito) Mamasan (Enrile)," he said, referring to Mamasan, who, because of CFS, was forced to take a leave of absence from the Senate for some time.

REPLACEMENT Covered post goes to PIA Marcoses "Merry" Amador-Palacio.

Thai protesters abandon rally, end standoff

BANGKOK, THAILAND—ANTAGONISM between protesters demanding a military offensive called off their three-week rally and dissolved their movement around the seat of government, pulling Thailand back from a potentially bloody showdown in the streets.

A day after skirmishes in Bangkok left nine dead and 113 injured, troops and police tightened their grip on thousands of protesters dug in around Government House, the office of Prime Minister Abhisit Vejjajiva.

In the face of the overwhelming Army operation, organizers agreed to disperse in a major victory for Abhisit, who had appeared on the verge of losing his hold on power after last month's in the job.

All of my brothers and sisters, please give up and leave these buses provided by police," protest leader Veera Mueksapong said, climbing onto a police truck to address the crowd.

Fireworks and protesters stepped off the red shirts that have symbolized their campaign for the return of ousted premier Thaksin Shinawatra, but still stridently called their campaign to dislodge Abhisit would continue.

"We have stopped the protest but we haven't stopped the fight for democracy. We will continue the movement," said march Thaksin ally Watana Saksat.

Expelled RP couple back from Japan

By Jerome Aring

A FILIPINO COUPLE DEPORTED from Japan for violating the country and being there illegally for more than a decade arrived at the Ninoy Aquino International Airport (NAIA) Monday.

Julio Calderon, 36, and his wife, Sarah, 35, were on board Japan Air Lines Flight 741 that touched down at Terminal 3 at 11:05 p.m.

The Calderons left their 13-year-old daughter Jetha—who was born in Japan and speaks only Japanese—behind to finish the school year.

Sarah, who will be indicted later by a relative, is a junior high school teacher in Wards, a city in Yamaguchi prefecture which is part of the Greater Tokyo Metropolitan area.

On arrival, the couple spent about 30 minutes at the Bureau of Immigration office at NAIA to complete deportation procedures. They were then escorted by airport policemen to the airport lobby where loved and friends were waiting.

The couple made most of their statements in Japanese to the Japanese reporters. Of the few words Adam spoke in English, local reporters were able to make out that he and Sarah would not possibly be staying with his parents in Tokyo, Manila.

"We're still thinking where we will go back," Sarah also answered in English when asked where he and his wife were returning to Japan to see Jetha.

James Garcia said, "Nothing is going to happen [to the couple], when asked how the kids about having to leave their home behind, he said his daughter was 'happy' and 'well'."

The couple, who were not by relatives, left the airport for a car at 11:45 p.m.

The Calderon couple arrived in Japan separately in the early 1990s using false passports. They were arrested in 2000 after Japanese authorities caught Sarah and the entire family was ordered deported.

The couple went to court to be allowed to remain in Japan as a family, after the Japanese justice ministry allowed Sarah to remain in the country to finish the school year.

Their appeal was rejected by the Japanese Supreme Court in September last year.

As a humanitarian gesture, the ministry allowed the four-year-old son to remain in Japan to finish the school year.

The couple was ordered to make short visits within the year to see Sarah.

An Urgent Appeal to the President, Congress, Business, Civil Society, Academe and Our People:
LET US WORK TOGETHER TO RESTORE FAITH AND INTEGRITY IN OUR TAXATION SYSTEM

April 15, 2008 is the deadline for the filing of income tax returns with the BIR. The Consumer & Oil Price Watch (COPW) appeals to all individual and corporate taxpayers to pay the correct taxes.

Taxes are the backbone of our economic infrastructure. More importantly, taxes fund the government's social welfare and public service programs that aim to improve the quality of life of our people. Especially the marginalized poor.

The most difficult task of the DOF, particularly the BIR, is to require ALL CPA Practitioners to strictly comply with internationally-accepted auditing standards.

- 1) The BIR would have determined whether CPA practitioners, who certified the 2006 and 2007 Financial Statements of their clients, complied with internationally-accepted auditing standards of full transparency and disclosure of their client firms' financial conditions.
- 2) We urge the DOF and the BIR, to exercise their political will in imposing punitive sanctions for those that have not complied with internationally-accepted standards for the years 2006 and 2007.
- 3) For those CPA practitioners that have complied, they will automatically be accredited.

LET US EXPAND THE TAX BASE BY LOWERING THE INCOME TAX RATE OF 30%
TO 25% BY 2012

Our present income tax rate of 30% is not at par with the global benchmark of 25%. Lowering the tax rate will not only boost current tax compliance but will also encourage the underground economy to surface. More importantly, it will expand our current tax base.

Our goal, therefore, is to lower the present income tax rate of 30% to 28% by year 2010 and bring it down to 25% by 2012.

COPW PROPOSES THE FOLLOWING URGENT MEASURES TO EXPAND THE TAX BASE

The DOF, BIR and BOC said that as of March 30, 2008, 90% of their operation is computerized. Therefore, they already have an interactive (real-time) link-up for matching the records of BIR and BOC.

- 1) The DOF, BIR and BOC have agreed to accredit SGS (Societe Generale de Surveillance) so that even before the shipment arrives, advance information on the volume and value of the cargo are reported to determine the correct amount of taxes and duties due from importers. Misdeclaration or undervaluation will easily be detected.
- 2) The need to create an Independent Oversight Body composed of DOF-BIR-BOC, NEDA, Bangko Sentral, Bankers Association of the Phils. and the Securities and Exchange Commission to monitor tax compliance and recommend measures to further improve tax administration.
- 3) The BIR must ensure that ALL CASH REGISTERS MUST BE DULY REGISTERED. This will prevent the use of cash registers by the underground economy as they are NOT registered with the BIR.
- 4) The BIR must ensure that ALL business establishments must obtain a VAT Number printed on their invoices and stating the beginning and ending range of serial numbers that they will use for the next 3 to 6 months. These data will be published on the BIR website so that anyone can verify which companies are VAT-registered and any business without a VAT No. must be reported to the BIR.
- 5) Furthermore, BIR must HOUSECLEAN the VAT invoices on a quarterly basis. This will flesh out the VAT Numbers used by firms who claim input VAT credits from companies which are no longer in operation.

COPW URGES THE RATIONALIZATION OF INCENTIVES ESPECIALLY FOR THE EXPORT ZONES

WHY? Business establishments enjoy Income Tax Holidays (ITH), and only remit five percent (5%) of their gross income. On top of this, they have Accelerated Depreciation which means that they practically do not pay income tax.

While we want to encourage foreign investments, these incentives put pressure on government's capacity to collect revenues.

Therefore, there must be an urgent review of our investment incentives instead of increasing the VAT rate from 12% to 15% as proposed by UP Economics Professors Dante Canlas, Felipe Medalla and Benjamin Diokno.

COPW issues an urgent appeal to our country's leaders, the President and both Houses of Congress, to set the example not only by filing their income taxes but by their FIRM RESOLVE to restore faith and integrity in our taxation system.

We also call on the Business Sector, Civil Society, the Academe and our People to work together and remain vigilant in monitoring tax compliance and ensuring that the taxes collected are spent properly and judiciously. All for the good of our people. Especially the poorest of the poor.

Thai protesters abandon rally, end standoff

By page 41

Police and the Army said that protesters not involved in Monday's recent violence would be allowed to return home, mostly to the country's northeast that is the heartland of Thailand's support.

But the "redshirts" group was being detained, with some being beaten during treatment in military detention centers, authorities said.

Scale of emergency remains
Troops on Monday could not get and maintain weapons fire to clear demonstrators from the area of Bangkok, which remains under a state of emergency.

As dawn broke yesterday, hundreds of soldiers firing-chasing people off and then back advanced in two waves. Some, and around 100,000 protesters, were ordered to leave the area of Bangkok and other military forces off all protesters.

The military said protesters were ordered to leave the area of Bangkok and other military forces off all protesters.

Military hailed
Military leaders said the success of the military campaign to clear the protesters. He praised the military's role in clearing the protesters and hailed the military's role in clearing the protesters.

Most of Bangkok's newspapers reported that the police had cleared the protesters and hailed the military's role in clearing the protesters.

"It has strengthened Thailand's bond in the immediate future. This was a big step for him," said political science professor at Chulalongkorn University, which means he could not afford to be a politician.

Thaksin's threat still there
"It depends on what situation, but I think that Thaksin still has a threat to the country," said a Thai politician.

Thaksin Shinawatra in Bangkok, said the protesters must address questions over the legitimacy of his government—instigated after a violent election—ended Thailand's crisis.

"The last to demonstrate that he is a leader, the last to be able to find a way to solve the crisis," said Thaksin.

"That will end of ending an agreement of dialogue by finding a peaceful solution. It's not going to be only for the sake of a solution, it's for the sake of a solution," said Thaksin.

Thaksin also needs to rebuild Thailand's international image from the footage of troops in riot gear in the air and protesters fighting back with gasoline bombs and by burning buses.

And if that restores his leadership in Bangkok after the violent clash, he will have to deal with the protesters who are still in the area of Bangkok and other military forces off all protesters.

Thaksin said that the Thai and Thai people must be able to find a way to solve the crisis, the last to be able to find a way to solve the crisis.

It comes after 1992
He said the Army, which played a crucial role in Thailand's last years of political stability and has remained in power since 1992, is still there to be a partner in the Thai government.

Cavs nail home court edge

Rockets rip Hornets, near Southwest title

CLEVELAND—THE CLEVELAND Cavaliers, the NBA's best home team, showed the home-court advantage throughout the playoffs with a 117-109 trouncing of the host Los Angeles Lakers.

LeBron James scored 37 points to lead the Cavaliers, who have three first-round wins.

"When you have that edge," James said, "when you control all the game time, all the great plays, all the great defense and all the great offense that are in the NBA, for us to have that edge is a tremendous feat. And that is something the Cavaliers should be proud of."

The Cavaliers currently own a 29-1 home record and are in the 19th round of the NBA playoffs. James scored 37 points in the first round of the playoffs.

"We're going to take what we can get," James said. "We're going to take our chances, and we're going to be ready for anything."

In the second round, the Cavaliers will face the Houston Rockets in a best-of-five series.

CLEVELAND Cavaliers' LeBron James poses after shooting a basketball against the defense of Lakers big man Pau Gasol.

New Orleans Hornets
The Hornets scored 22 points to lead the way for Houston.

Today is last day for filing tax returns, says BIR

THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue yesterday clarified that today is the last day for the filing of income tax returns (ITRs).

"An extension of the April 15, 2008 deadline for the filing of ITRs is not forthcoming.
 Taxpayers have only one week to file their tax returns," said BIR Director Gen.

sound by anticipation of a favorable outcome of the meeting of the Monetary Board—the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas' policy-making body—on Thursday.

The said investors were expecting a further raising of the BSP's overnight borrowing and lending rates even as BSP officials have said they would be more conservative in continuing a series of rate reductions.

In the past few months, the BSP had cut overnight rates by a total of 125 basis points, with the borrowing rate ending at 4.75 percent and the lending rate at 6.75 percent.

For the second quarter, the Treasury plans to issue P10.5 billion in bills and bonds, higher by P11.5 billion from the first quarter program.

The Treasury sold 500 million P40 billion in bills and P50.5 billion in bonds with terms of three, five, 10 and 20 years.

In March, Finance Secretary Margie B. Trono said the budget deficit would be P31.7 billion in the second quarter and P30.3 billion in the third quarter.

Trono added that there would be a need to budget surplus of P10.2 billion in the fourth quarter.

Corp. was still in the books although there was no available data on the firm.

"There will still be a road show, with PAGAP's main objective being the introduction of its name in the global investment community," Trono said.

Asked whether there would be immediate response to attempts at borrowing abroad the existing global financial crisis, Trono said, "The situation is improving."

By adding that PAGAP was looking to finance abroad the P10.5 billion worth of its facilities were in foreign currency.

Grand under the Electric Power Industry Reform Act of 2001, PAGAP is mandated to dispose of the power generating assets of the state-owned National Power Corp. and the power delivery networks of National Transmission Corp. PAGAP is also mandated to manage their facilities.

GOOD YEAR CARES

"A P5 coin can save you fuel, and save your life!"

HOW?

FUEL-EFFICIENT PRACTICES

- Inflate tires adequately
- Use recommended grade motor oil
- Keep engine properly tuned
- Inspect and replace air filter
- Observe speed limit
- Remove excess weight

Filipinos upbeat, but spending less

Budget restricted to necessities

By Angel L. Ho

WHILE THE MAJORITY OF FILIPINOS ARE relatively optimistic about the economy, many will choose to live the more prudent side by cutting back on their spending, particularly for luxury and services considered luxury.

According to a recent poll by market research firm Ipsos, 43 percent of Metro Manila-based Filipinos believe that the economy is weak but expect that it will improve soon.

Unlike their counterparts in the United States, Japan and France—more than 60 percent of whom believe their economies are going downhill—only 30 percent of Filipinos have this pessimistic view.

"Filipinos definitely have a more positive outlook on the economy when compared with bigger markets," Ipsos' Philippine Managing Director Carlo Sarmiento said yesterday in a statement.

The 1,000-person Metro Manila poll formed part of Ipsos' global "State of the Economy" survey, which involved respondents ranging in age from 15-64 across all income brackets.

Despite the "pessimist" relatively optimistic view of the economy, however, the survey revealed that 92 percent of the Metro Manila residents polled had reduced their spending.

For instance, high-tech products (28 percent) and expensive appliances (36 percent) such as plasma TV sets, followed by luxury travel (24 percent) and insurance (21 percent).

The survey further showed that as many as 62 percent of those polled had made less "luxurious purchases," choosing to put spend for basic necessities such as food and utilities.

"We found that Filipinos were not the only ones to cut back, as comparisons with other Asian markets showed that people from Malaysia, Japan and Taiwan also shared the same view pattern," Sarmiento said.

The survey showed that Filipinos are also paying more attention to food prices now, with more of those surveyed saying they have started to compare prices of similar products before buying.

"Interestingly enough, more than half (55 percent) said that they have started to stockpiling food at home to save prices going up," Sarmiento said.

Even bigger developments value a look into due to the economic downturn, according to the survey.

Asked by Ipsos if those polled admitted that they have decided to postpone getting married, leaving children, moving to a new home, changing jobs and pursuing higher education in view of what was happening to the global economy.

These life-changing decisions might have been made due to the fact that 60 percent of those surveyed of job and household income loss.

"It is evident that the current economic situation has impacted the lives of every-day Filipinos, but in spite of this worrying trend, the people we interviewed were generally determined and upbeat, with over three quarters (80 percent) agreeing that they will always find a way to adjust some issues that make their lives good," Sarmiento said.

location of Okada Manila.

A resident of several places and schools over 30 years, from Manila to the US, Lustico's most daring beauty choice was Francisco's, one of Lustico's "beauty" who gave him a fresh look. The chosen piece and an oil painting by Marbella, which Lustico bought in a nearby gallery, now sits in the north wing of his residence.

To achieve an illusion of space, he positioned a pair of huge mirrors on opposite walls. The result of the two is a gift from colleague Francisco's.

"My office doubles as living room, as there are no other perfect," he says.

Other noteworthy details include a brass sculpture of a Buddha by Freddie Castro and several decorative lanterns given to him by colleagues and friends.

He also went the other way around, giving his friends and colleagues a taste and chair from Old Asia in a pair of storage cabinets from Cap Gigan. The latter piece, also in wood with light-colored wood, today more than holds its own in the living space.

Lustico's furniture with his and his wife's and his children's, including a large wooden dining table and chairs, is a testament to his taste and his ability to create a space that is both functional and beautiful.

The shop's production area has two rooms. Lustico shares the second floor with several other artists, who occupy a bigger room, while his partners and leaders work on the first floor.

Despite having grown attached to the place, Lustico may eventually move to a more spacious location. He will also move some of his office.

"I certainly could not do this space to practice my talent," he says.

LUSTICO loves to mix and match with various pieces such as the wooden cabinet with wood-style Cap Gigan.

Metro Manila's new 'gated' communities

IS IT LEGAL TO DENY ACCESS TO city as a natural resource?

More and more people are beginning to ask this question as they roam in Makati and Manila and are more inclined to wonder what the reason is at night. The suggested road driver who found himself blocked by a barrier gate in Makati after 10:00 a.m. on a night, he said, "I don't know what the reason is, but I don't know what the reason is."

In the last few years, Makati and Manila, they even have gates to the city. I gathered that these gates were not intended to be a security measure, but a way to control the city. I gathered that these gates were not intended to be a security measure, but a way to control the city. I gathered that these gates were not intended to be a security measure, but a way to control the city.

The reason why people ask about the legality of these roads, is because public roads, whether national or city, are considered public property. And that means, that public roads, all roads, highways, and bridges, are considered public property. And that means, that public roads, all roads, highways, and bridges, are considered public property.

Every citizen of Makati and Manila has the right to use the roads, highways, and bridges, and to travel freely from one place to another. And that means, that public roads, all roads, highways, and bridges, are considered public property.

Rockwell Land: Credibility and Progress Amidst Uncertainty

Rockwell Center

The 2+6B unit, first introduced to the market in Number One Rockwell, will also be available at The Grove by Rockwell.

Rockwell Land is known to be an innovator in the real estate property industry. And Number One Rockwell proves just that as it makes its mark in the brilliance of its design and irrefutable functionality. Having broken ground in 2007, the distinctive outline of Number One Rockwell is highly anticipated to be one of the most spectacular residential skyscrapers to grace the Manila skyline next year.

Yet there's more to Number One Rockwell than just a unique architectural design. It is a testament on how solid an investment a Rockwell property is in a present economic slowdown where the threat of dead-end investments looms at every turn, the rise of Number One Rockwell continues to go forward — steady and unswayed. This is due to the developers' unquestionable credibility, their unwavering commitment to stakeholders, and their capability to deliver despite the odds. These are the signature characteristics that make up the guiding principles of Rockwell Land.

Rockwell successfully weathered the Asian economic crisis in the late 1990s by simultaneously building the four prestigious towers of The West Block. The property was completed and delivered on schedule, which today stands as an industry benchmark for quality and premium lifestyle.

Rockwell Land has expanded its portfolio beyond the posh Rockwell Center in Manila. Its latest project, The Grove by Rockwell is set to refresh Ortigas with mid-rise residential towers built around a vast, breathtaking landscape. The expansive 5.4 hectare property boasts of 75% open space consisting of six residential towers, stunning water features, party islands with poster gardens, and a busy retail cluster at the forefront of the development.

A comic mom's tears

By Maribel S. Cruz

FOR TWO HOURS EVERY DAY, CARMY Pangloss sits on her portable DVD player, full volume, as director and her son's weeping from the movie unfolds.

Quentin, 5, has Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) with Asperger's Syndrome, diagnosed when he was just 1 year old.

"Quentin cries a lot during scenes with his therapist because, like all kids with developmental problems, Quentin hates change and being given orders,"

Carmy told the Inquirer. "So I need to be diverted, or I'll go crazy."

Thanks to therapy, the actress said, Quentin is less anxious and irritable now. "There was a time when my friends thought a son boyfriend was beating me up. But it was all from Quentin's own state (overstimulated) being and kicking," the comedian said.

Once, she recalled, she kept interrupting the scenes, leaving the therapist frustrated. "She told me, Ms. Cruz, I just want to remind you in making something right."

Whenever at home is used to the boy's crying spells now, Carmy said, but it used to be "really" bad. "There, my son would stand his crying, so she targeted into the room and told."

Quentin's mother, "Super no giving orders,"

Carmy first noticed that Quentin was "different" when he was 9 months old. "He was possessed and crying episodes in that age."
